

Excerpts from The Unscraped Barrel

- A substantial repertoire of problems will be extinct, if people duly respect the individuality of the humankind.
- The learning that failures & downfalls offer is unmatched. Trust me. You will begin to handle every aspect of your life in a better way, including success.
- Life opens up a fresh dimension of possibilities, when we stop whining and start appreciating things. Even, venom turns out to be a life-saving medicine.
- Similar to a good cinema, a person's life gets more beautiful when two elements merge: Commercial orientation for financial autonomy and Artistic Influence for societal progress.
- Crisis is like a springboard. You step on it, only to bounce higher.
